The Popular, New, Just Bookmarked and Staff Picks will also rotate, changing on page refresh. Perhaps from a limited list of the top 20 or 40 generated every 24 hours? The “more” link could go to either a list of the top picks, or a search result.

Category Page

The screenshot shows the Internet Archive's 'News & Public Affairs' category page. The page is divided into several sections:

- Top Navigation: Includes links for 'Web Archive', 'About IA', 'Jobs', and 'FAQs'. Below this is a grid of category links such as 'Arts & Animation', 'Blogs, Vlogs & Podcasts', 'Books & Poetry', 'Ephemera', 'Humor', 'Music', 'News & Public Affairs', 'Non-English Language', 'People', 'Podcasts', 'Regional & Spiritual', 'Science & Technology', 'Sports', 'Travel & Places', 'Video Games', and 'Miscellaneous'.
- Search Bar: A search bar with filters for 'Categories' and 'Media'.
- Curated Collections (Left Sidebar): A list of collections in News & Public Affairs, including 'Deep Dish TV', 'Democracy Now Audio', 'Democracy Now Video', 'Election 2004', 'Fadiman Social Documentaries', 'Free Speech Radio News', 'Iraq War', 'KQJZ's Insight', 'Mosaic: Middle East News', 'Mother Jones Radio', 'Open Democracy', 'Open Mind', and 'Presidential Recordings'.
- News & Public Affairs (Main Content): A section titled 'News & Public Affairs (3,798)' with a 'Show me:' filter for 'Video', 'Audio', 'Books', 'Education', 'Software', and 'All'. It features a 'Keywords' cloud (highlighted with a red box and number 1), 'Popular' items, 'New' items, and 'Just Bookmarked' items.
- Bookmark Collections (Right Sidebar): A list of bookmark collections in News & Public Affairs, including 'Bushiana', 'LFO Comics', 'Iraq War', 'Jahann & mas', 'Whitney Chapman on 9/11', 'Free Tibet', 'Bush speeches', 'Gawke Commercials', 'Democracy Now Highlights', 'Best Comedy Recordings', 'Iraq War', and 'Military Recordings'.

Red boxes and numbers 1, 2, and 3 highlight specific features:

- 1: A keyword cloud with the most popular keywords from all items in the category. The more link takes you to a cloud with all keywords that appear more than x times (x depends on how big we want the cloud to be, of course).
- 2: All curated collections in the category in alphabetical order. Image included to tell people what the mediatype is for the collection. If someone only wants to see movie collections, they can filter the content of the page to show only movies.
- 3: When users create bookmark collections, they will be required to choose a category for the collection. We can populate this sidebar with the newest collections.

Title of bookmark collection, number of items in parentheses, linked screenname that goes to that user's page, description of collection, picture that user can upload to go with collection, and then the items.

1 Other bookmark collections by the same user who created this collection.

2 Bookmark collections by other users that have items in common with this bookmark collection. Should we let users add keywords for their bookmark collections? Might be another good way of finding related content.

User can upload a photo and write a bio here. We also need a way for users to create a new bookmark collection and a way for them to view all of their uploads, reviews and forum posts. I also added a link to let them find other users with similar items.

- 1 Other bookmark collections by the same user who created this collection.
- 2 The user's uncategorized bookmarks. It would be cool if we could use ajax to make it so you can drag bookmarks from this sidebar into one of the collections in the left sidebar!

Are You Popular?

One of the best examples of post-World War II social guidance films, with examples of "good" and "bad" girls, proper and improper dating etiquette, courtesy to parents, and an analysis of what makes some people popular and others not. A scream and a sobering document of postwar conformity. Director: Ted Peaback. Cinematography: Bill Rocker. Writers: Robert Chapin and Patricia Kenly. Editor: George Wilbern. Educational adviser: Dr. Alice Sowers, Director, Family Life Institute of the University of Oklahoma. With Marilyn Fisher (Caroline Ames); Marilyn Fisher's mother (Mrs. Ames); Bill Fein (Larry); Bunny Gatcher (Ellie); Lester Podesta II (Mr. Ames); Sherry Nash (Ginny) and David Whitehouse (Boy at Lunch Table).

★★★★★ Girls and the double standard Manyaz, March 28, 2006

"Let's see what makes people like one person and not another," says the narrator we see in high school cafeteria. "This film is not about what makes 'people' popular, it's about what makes girls popular. First, we meet Ginny: 'Ginny thinks she has found the keys to popularity, parking in cars with boys at night.' However, Ginny's got it all wrong. 'No, girls who park in cars are not really popular, not even with the boys they park with.' We then meet a 'nice' girl, Caroline Ames, who demonstrates the appropriate behavior that leads to a girl's popularity. What makes a girl popular? ... is it because they like the way she looks and dresses? Is it because she seems as interested in girls as in boys? Because they've heard no scandal about her? The film shows how fragile a girl's reputation is and how much work she and her parents, especially her mother, have to do to maintain it. The film stresses girls' friendships with each other as a way of monitoring the acceptability of each other's behavior. Caroline puts a lot of behind the scenes work into being popular. She keeps a date book so she'll never have the embarrassment of forgetting a date or being ready an hour too late! It's also a shame for her to make a mistake in this high school world." (Quoted permission is appreciated for a public record of this film's educational value.)
